MEXICAN GENERAL IN JUAREZ

Carranza's War Minister Denies Break with His Chief; Will Insist on the U. S. Withdrawal

El Paso, Texas, April 28.—Alvaro Obregon, Mexican Minister of War, who arrived at Juarez early today for a conference with Generals Scott and Funston regarding the Mexican situation, stated this afternoon to the International News Service staff correspondent that he will insist on the withdrawal of United States troops from Mexican soil.

Obregon emphatically denied the report of a break between himself and Carranza, the First Chief.

The special train bringing Obregon and his party to Juarez was run in three sections. The second which carried General Obregon and his personal staff and the first, came through without incident from Chihuahua City, but the third section was derailed, several passengers being injured.

General Luis Gutiterrez, military commander of the State of Chiahuhua was a passenger on the third section. One of his companions was hurt, but it is understood that General Gutirrez escaped injury.

General Gavira, commandante of the Carranza garrison, and his entire staff and more than 2,000 troops were lined up at the Juarez station when General Obregon arrived.

VILLISTAS ACTIVE.

Reports reached Columbus headquarters today that Villista sympathizers all along the Mexican northwestern railroads are very active and are striving to arouse the people as a whole to unite and oppose the Americans.

Two train loads of Carranzista troops passed through San Antonio today (Thursday) en route to Cusihuiriachic and Temosachic to reinforce the garrisons there.

Army officers believe it possible that the movement of the Carranzista troops into the district at this time is to quell the disturbances among the civil population caused by the Villista activity.

Other dispatches told of the defeat of 5,000 reactionary soldiers in the suburbs of Oaxaca by General Castro. The "reactionaries" lost 500 in killed and wounded. General Gonzales is expected to occupy Curenavaca, a Zapatista town for two years.

OBREGON'S DEMANDS.

Obregon himself, in announcing his intention of demanding the withdrawal of American troops, denied any impending break with the First Chief. His statement of the objects he expects to obtain at today's conference was:

> I have come to Juarez to convince the American representatives that our army is more than amply sufficient to control the small groups of Villa bandits which are still at large and outside the law.
> I hope to arrange the prompt retirement of the American troops into their own country.

General Scott has been structed, it is said semi-officially, to answer Obregon's demand with the suggestion that a tentative date be agreed on by both parties for the withdrawal of American troops, but subject to extension in case Villa had not been captured, or his band dispersed.

Good Afternoon, Mr. Roosevelt, Do You Know It's April 28?

Assistant Secretary of the Navy Franklin D. Roosevelt, at left, and Stuart Davis of the Volunteer Power Boat Fleet greeting each other in snow storm.

An important two-hour conference was held at the Boston Navy Yard today. It was attended by Assistant Secretary of the Navy Franklin D. Roosevelt, Captain W. R. Rush, commandant of the local yard; his aide, Lieutenant Edward G. Blakeslee; Naval Constructor William J. Baxter, Lieutenant Commander W. K. Riddle, R. E. Bakenus, public works officer; Captain R. D. Hasbrouch, captain of the yard, and the heads of civil departments.

Problems of the local yard were discussed and rush orders figured in the deliberations. There are 36 vessels of all classes being tuned up at the Charlestown yard. More than 3,000 men are working night and day. There is a scarcity of certain lines of mechanics.

Today's conference was secret. One of the topics discussed related to the listing of private steam and motor boats as additions to the naval reserve to be used in emergency.

INSPECTS LOCAL CRAFT.

Assistant Secretary Roosevelt has been busy since his arrival in Boston inspecting suitable craft in local waters for the naval reserve force. The department today enrolled four "express cruisers." These are four high-priced motor boats owned by a syndicate of Boston men for private use.

They were brought up today from Marblehead, where they were built, and inspected by Assistant Secretary Roosevelt, who was accompanied by one of the motorboat owners, Arthur P. Homer of No. 196 State street.

One of the motorboats touched at the government landing at State street and carried Messrs. Roosevelt and Homer out through a blizzard to the anchorage of the other three boats, which were inspected. Then Assistant Secretary Roosevelt saw what the one he was in could do in rough weather.

He was sufficiently satisfied to order that the four motorboats be enrolled into the government reserve fleet, making the first selections for the Boston branch.

FAST CRUISERS.

The so-called "express cruisers" are forty-five feet long, are equipped with 150-horsepower engines and can develop a speed ranging from twenty-five to thirty knots. It was explained that these and other private craft selected will be regularly inspected under naval regulations and kept ready for instant use as patrol boats, scouts and dispatch-bearers.

Local yachtsmen and boat owners are heartily co-operating with the Federal authorities in the mustering of "Squadron 1" of the Boston fleet.

Secretary Roosevelt was met today at the South Station by Arthur P. Homer and A. Loring Swasey. They went to City Point and boarded Mr. Swasey's motorboat, which is to be flagship of the "express cruisers." Then followed the manoeuvres in the late April blizzard.

U-BOAT SINKS SHIP IN AMERICAN TRADE

By International News Service.

London, April 28.—The British steamer Industry, plying between American and French ports, has been sunk by a submarine in the Atlantic Ocean. The crew was picked up by another vessel. As far as is known there was no loss of life. The Industry displaced 4,044 tons and was built in 1888. Its home port was Liverpool.

The Industry was unarmed. She was torpedoed 120 miles from land, and the seamen were left to their fate in open boats. All were picked up by the American liner Finland. The Industry was on her way to the United States.

Report U-Boat Dispute Ended

PACT UPON U-BOATS NEAR

Kaiser Expected to Send Satisfactory Answer to American Note; Also Message to Wilson

By International News Service

Berlin, April 28.—Semi-official announcement was made today that a solution of the submarine warfare dispute with the United States that would prove satisfactory to both Germany and America had been reached.

Its details are withheld, in accordance with diplomatic courtesy, until the German reply to the American note has been sent.

It was stated the assertion a solution had been found was based on advices received at the American Embassy. It is understood that a long message was received by Ambassador Gerard from Washington on Thursday in which the position of the American government was fully set forth and that the ambassador made the contents of this message known to Foreign Minister von Jagow late in the afternoon.

(It is possible that the "long message" was the statement issued in Washington Wednesday afternoon).

The visit of Ambassador Gerard to army headquarters at the personal invitation of Emperor William is regarded here as further evidence there is no danger of a break between Germany and America.

It was intimated today that in addition to the formal reply in diplomatic terms which the German government will make to the United States, the

FLAGSHIP HIT BY MINE

Admiralty Announces Loss of 14,000-Ton Battleship Russell; Report 124 Seamen Missing

By FRANK TEWSON,
International News Service Staff Correspondent.

London, April 28.—The 14,000-ton British battleship Russell, the flagship of the Mediterranean fleet, has been sunk in the Mediterranean by a mine, with the loss of 124 lives, it was officially announced today by the Admiralty.

The Russell was an old ship, having been in commission for fifteen years. The admiralty stated that the sinking of the battleship occurred on Thursday. So violent was the explosion that a tremendous hole was torn in the warship's hull below the water line and she immediately began to fill with water.

Following is the text of the Admiralty statement:

> "The battleship Russell, Captain William Bowden Smith, and flying the flag of Admiral Fremantle, struck a mine in the Mediterranean yesterday and sank.
> "The Admiral, Captain Smith, twenty-four other officers and 676 men were saved. About 124 officers and men are missing."

The Russell was in the same class as the battleships Duncan, Cornwallis, Exmouth and Albemarle. The Russell mounted four 12-inch guns in pairs in turrets, fore and aft; twelve 6-inch (45 calibre) guns in casemates, twelve 3-inch (12-pounder) guns, six 3-pounders and two machine guns as well as four 18-inch torpedo tubes broadside. She was protected by Krupp armor.

The Russell was 405 feet long and 75 feet beam. Her speed was nineteen knots.

London, April 28.—London newspapers today began to prepare the public for bitter news from the Mesopotamian front, where a large British force under General Townshend is bottled up at Kut-el-Amara. The government censor permitted publication of alarming hints that news of a fresh British disaster may soon be expected.

Paris, April 28.—Another strong contingent of Russian troops arrived at Marseilles today, it is officially announced. This is the third body of Slav soldiers brought to France for service on the western front.

Need New Law to Bring Sunday to Cambridge

At a meeting of the Billy Sunday Campaign Committee members and Mayor Rockwood of Cambridge today, it was learned that the unexpected discovery of a city ordinance would prevent the erection in the University City of a tabernacle such as that planned.

This ordinance provides that all structures seating 1,000 persons or more to be used for public assemblies must be fireproof and have fire walls throughout.

Mayor Rockwood was not disheartened, however, and declared that at the meeting of the City Council on Tuesday an order will be introduced to amend the ordinance. Although he has received no reply to his telegram of invitation to Billy Sunday, he feels confident the evangelist will accept.

TORN UNIFORM IS EXHIBIT IN COURT

A torn uniform was shown to Judge Logan in South Boston today by Patrolman Patrick Sullivan of D Street Station. Buttons had been twisted off. The back was ripped up. It looked as though it had been hit by a Zeppelin bomb. Sullivan said Michael Ryan did all this before he was overpowered and arrested for intoxication the night before. Ryan was given two months in the House of Correction. He appealed.

MORE WARSHIPS SENT TO DUBLIN

By SIDNEY B. CAVE,
International News Service Staff Correspondent.

London, April 28.—Great quantities of arms have been landed in Ireland by German submarines, and these are now being used by the Irish rebels against the British troops, it was stated here today.

This is the first case of submarine filibustering on record and solves the problem that has long puzzled the British government as to where the Sinn Feiners were getting their rifles and ammunition.

More warships have been sent into Irish waters, not only to protect cities on the eastern, southern and western coasts, but to prevent any further filibustering on the part of Irish and German agents of the revolutionists. In addition to the warships in Dublin Bay British men-of-war are lying off Cork, Queenstown, Bantry, Limerick and Galway.

FIGHTING IN FIVE COUNTIES

With all of Ireland under martial law and troops pouring into the island from England, it was reported today that fighting had developed in five counties in southeast and the west.

Military proclamations are being posted under orders from Major-General Sir John Maxwell warning the Irish against taking up arms against the king.

Coming direct from the centre of the Irish revolt Dublin travelers who left Ireland last night arrived in London today bringing stories of fighting in the streets between rebels and soldiers.

Dublin itself seems from the government admissions to be in a state of war resembling that which prevailed in the City of Mexico during the last days of Madero.

The police quote the women as saying Cenay and Martin were in the Pelletier apartments last evening and that Cenay left the house at 11:30 to buy a cigar and did not return.

Cenay was found by Nicholas Berle, a [illegible].

SAYS GERMANY HAS 220 NEW U-BOATS

hands of the revolutionists. The latter held "buildings in Sackville and other streets."

What this means may be judged from the fact that Sackville street is to Dublin what Broadway is to New York. When they captured the postoffice on Monday, the revolutionists also seized the city hall, the four courts of justice and the two principal railway stations which command communication with England.

The fighting has spread to the south and west of Ireland. Government officials admit they expect even more serious clashes before the revolution is quelled.

England, meanwhile, is extremely anxious about the Irish situation. The entire nation is uneasy.

Sir Edward Carson has offered to place his Ulster volunteers at the disposal of the government to fight the revolutionists.

It is announced that the government has the names of prominent Irish-Americans who are alleged to have been engaged in the plot to start the revolution. It is further stated that startling disclosures will be made from information now in the hands of the government.

It is understood the American officials here have conferred with the government on the plot and its bearings on the United States.

That Ireland's internal traffic is paralyzed is shown by the fact that in Drogheda, twenty-six miles north of Dublin, no Dublin papers have been received since Monday.

In Dublin Bay, British war ships have their guns trained on the city, but the authorities are hopeful that the military may be able to restore order without the horrors of a naval bombardment.

What horrors in the way of street and house-to-house fighting may be going on from hour to hour, can only be conjectured.

That the revolutionists are armed with machine guns which they have mounted on the roofs of buildings has been admitted by the Marquis of Lansdowne.

The official view is that the revolt was planned for Easter Sunday in the hope of the military authorities being caught off their guard.

CASEMENT TO BE TRIED.

Three other strokes are believed to have been timed by the Germans to synchronize with the movements, the landing of Sir Roger Casement with a shipload of arms, and the cruiser and Zeppelin raids on the English coast.

Sir Roger Casement is quoted as having said since his capture that the uprising depended largely on his leadership and would probably be a failure in his absence. But the developments so far seem to show that the revolution was capable of taking care of itself.

Events in Ireland are concentrating public attention on the famous knight. Owing to the present state of feeling concerning him, it is thought that the government may postpone his trial until some progress has been made toward pacifying Ireland.

The Express suggests the possibility of Casement's being condemned to the ancient doom by the axe of the headsman if found guilty of high treason.

Others believe that the wisest policy would be to treat him with leniency, such as was accorded to General de Wit, the leader of the rebellion in South Africa.

ASQUITH PROMISES PROBE.

It is understood the papers implicating prominent Irishmen were found on Casement when he was arrested.

Premier Asquith, in the Commons promised that a searching investigation would be made into the cause of the outbreak, and into any official negligence which might have contributed to it. He guaranteed all possible latitude in the transmission of news consistent with the essentially military requirements of the prevailing censorship.

Sir Henry Dalzell moved that the House sit on Monday to discuss the Dublin outbreak. Premier Asquith said in reply that debate on the subject while the conflagration was raging, would only be mischievous. He added:

> Our allies have already been made aware by Sir Edward Carson and Mr. Redmond that the movement is sectional only, and has no sympathy from the representatives of the Irish leaders.

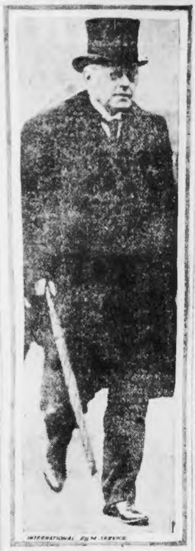
Sir Edward Carson on behalf of Ulster and John Redmond on behalf of the Nationalists had expressed their horror at the news of the revolution, and their hope that no attempt would be made to make political capital out of it.

Mr. Asquith went on to admit that street fighting was still in progress in Dublin and that the revolutionists continued to hold important public buildings.

Viscount Middleton in the House of Lords criticized the government for having announced on Tuesday that they had the situation well in hand. At the very time of that assurance, he declared, the rebels were in possession of important parts of Dublin, including the postoffice, and no attempt had been made to dislodge them.

He added that the government had been aware for months that numbers of volunteers had been drilling and that they were well provided with munitions. He insisted the situation was one of the greatest danger.

AUGUSTINE BIRRELL, chief secretary for Ireland, who is blamed by the British press for permitting the Irish revolt to grow.



INTERNATIONAL FILM SERVICE

Would Try to Avenge Casement If Slain

By International News Service.

Washington, April 28.—Washington Irishmen today were trying to get authentic word regarding the conditions in Ireland, and especially on the fate of Sir Roger Casement.

It is understood that John Devoy, editor of the Gaelic American, and other leaders of Irish sentiment in this country have sent out word to their associates to refrain from discussing the Irish uprising at present because of the fear that such action might make the situation of Sir Roger worse.

It is already certain that if he is executed Irish Americans in this country will do their utmost to avenge his death.

The Department of Justice is keeping a close watch on shipping in Boston, New York and Philadelphia. Reports reaching the department today said that Philadelphia Irishmen were considering the proposition of chartering a steamship to take them to Ireland.

While the investigators of the department did not fully credit this, agents are watching developments. Both at the Treasury Department and the Department of Justice it was said today that there had been a change in the status of the self-interned German ships tied up in the various Atlantic ports. Reports that some of these vessels have taken on large supplies of arms and munitions are declared to be entirely untrue. No matter what the outcome of the submarine dispute or the Irish uprising, it is unlikely that any of these steamers will make a dash to sea.

Information received here shows that British and French steamers are again patrolling the Atlantic seaboard, and that within the last few days new and more powerful cruisers have reached this side of the Atlantic.

SAY 'FRIENDS' IN U. S. BACKED IRISH REVOLT

Persons in the United States abreast with the changes in conditions in Ireland and Irish movements, declared today that the revolution under way in Ireland is the uprising of the "Irish Volunteers" backed, at least until now, by the Friends of Irish Freedom in this country.

The Friends of Irish Freedom was formally organized in New York, March 4 and 5, at the Irish Race Convention. Its national president is Victor Herbert. Local branches were started immediately in all parts of the country. Several have been organized and are already striving for the objects of the movement in Boston.

"DEFENCE OF IRELAND FUND."

The formal organization of the Friends of Irish Freedom developed out of the less closely centralized Irish Societies' "Defence of Ireland Fund," first instituted to supply munitions and supplies to the Irish Volunteers in Ireland, when the object of those Volunteers was still to oppose the threatened mutiny of the Ulster Volunteers against "Home Rule," as outlined in the "Better Government of Ireland bill."

The peculiar situation has thus arisen of an organization formed and trained with the consent of the British government, for the express purpose of preventing malcontents in Ireland from opposing the British government, now carrying the "Defence of Ireland" object to the point of open revolution.

Not until the capture of Sir Roger Casement was the organization, "Irish Volunteers," under the leadership of Professor Eoin MacNeill of Dublin University, declared illegal. Consequently those in this country who had contributed funds to the "Irish Volunteers" or the "Defence of Ireland Fund," were supporting an organization officially approved by the British government.

AIMS OF THE SOCIETY.

Article II. of the new American organization, known as the Friends of Irish Freedom, specifically states the objects and aims of the society thus:

1—To encourage and assist any movement that will tend to bring about the national independence of Ireland, and as part of such work to

2—Assist in the development of the labor and industrial interests of Ireland;

3—Encourage the use and sale of Irish products,

4—Assist in the revival of the language, literature, music and manners of the Gael.

Membership in the Friends of Irish Freedom, by the third article of the constitution, is open to "all those of Irish race who sympathize with Ireland's aspirations for complete national independence," and the essential feature of initiation into the local branches is subscription to the "Declaration of Principles," adopted in New York March 4, and hailed as the "Irish Declaration of Independence."

The "Principles" are out-and-out, rabidly opposed to England and everything English, even to pro-English Americans. After recounting the long list of British oppressions against the United States in the Revolution, in the plot of the New England Tories to steal New England for Britain, the fundamental cause of the War of 1812, in the Rebellion, up to the present day conditions, openly forecast the very uprising now taking place in Ireland against the same "oppressors."

The call to Irishmen is set forth thus:

> Today, in spite of her work and that of her accredited and discredited agents, England is forced to admit that recruiting in Ireland is and has been a failure, that Ireland sees that this is England's and not Ireland's war, and that she dare not, because of the mutterings all over the land, enforce conscription in Ireland or leave the country without the huge garrison whose services she needs so badly in many other other quarters, but which she dare not remove from that land which she has for many centuries robbed and oppressed.
> Today once more, as in the days of Grattan and Charlemont, the Irish Volunteers have saved Ireland, have stepped into the breach between their country and the tyranny of England and served notice upon the latter that the young manhood of Ireland must be kept at home to defend the rights of Ireland and to take issue with any power which would attempt to harm their country.
> Today Ireland is ablaze with a new spirit of hope and of confidence.

U. S. Can Make No Casement Plea

Washington, April 28.—President Wilson can take no action in behalf of Sir Roger Casement, the Irish leader, who is now in the Tower of London awaiting trial on charges of treason. White House officials said today that even though the President is appealed to to ask for clemency in the case of Sir Roger he will be unable to do so.

It would be an unprecedented action for the President to try to intervene in the case of a British subject whose case is being handled by the British authorities, officials say, and would certainly be resented by the British government. Because of the fact, it was said the President probably will refuse to receive Michael Francis Doyle, a Philadelphia attorney who has announced he is coming to Washington to ask the President to act.

It is understood, Mrs. Agnes Newman, sister of Sir Roger Casement, plans to write President Wilson asking him to appeal for her brother's life.

DENIES ON THE STAND HE KILLED JUNKMAN

Frank J. Tracey, jointly accused with Joseph Rogers of the murder of Samuel W. Cohen, a junkman, today on the witness stand denied that he did the shooting, and declared that he knew nothing about the murder until after it was committed.

Questioned by his attorney, John W. Connolly, Tracey gave an account of the movements of himself and Rogers on the morning of May 22, the day of the murder was committed. He described how they went down Tremont street "looking for junkmen," and said that he saw Rogers talking to Taitel. Later Rogers told him that Taitel would be down in half an hour.

"We went to a saloon," said Tracey, "and I saw Taitel pass the place. I told Joe to lead Taitel to the house, but to delay in the alley while I went in the front door.

ROBBED TAITEL.

"I went in the front door, and they came in the back way. I said, 'Hello,' and Taitel asked where the junk was. We told him in the cellar. They went there and when I followed Taitel had his hands in the air. I looked at Joe and then searched Taitel, getting $9.65 from him. Joe had a gun levelled at him. I put back papers which I took from Taitel. I did not have a gun.

"After getting the money we went to the kitchen and I told Taitel to go in the closet. I put a chair under the knob of the closet door, which was not locked. We stayed in the kitchen about five minutes when we left the house and went to the corner of Shawmut avenue and Lenox street, where we separated. I went back to the saloon. This was about 10 o'clock.

"I stayed at the saloon about an hour and then went back to the house. The first one I saw was Joe. I said: 'Where's the other man,' but Joe only laughed. I went into the front cellar and when I came out I looked towards Joe's feet. He then looked down and I looked where he indicated.

SAW THE BODY.

"Then I saw a pair of legs sticking out from under the bed. I got down on my knees and started to pull the body out by an arm. There was a rag on the head.

"I went to the closet and told Taitel to step out. I pointed to the body and said: 'Can you see that?' He looked at it, and covered his face, and said: 'My God, don't kill me.' I told him he was not going to be harmed.

"In a few minutes I thought I would give him a drink to kind of keep up his courage. I walked over toward the closet and asked him if he would like a drink, and he said, 'Yes.'

"I gave him a drink and then I asked him if he wanted some cheese and crackers. He said no but when I offered some to him he took them. I told him to keep up his nerve and not be afraid.

"I stayed at the house about twenty minutes, and then went to a Northampton street pawnshop and asked the price of a shovel, which I bought ten minutes later. I dug part in the cellar and Joe dug the rest."

"You didn't see Cohen shot?" asked Attorney Connolly.

"No," replied Tracey.

"Did Rogers tell you how Cohen was shot?"

TWO VERSIONS.

"Yes, he gave me two distinct versions and I don't care to mention them or mention any names."

A short time later Tracey said:

"Joe told me he shot him by mistake, and later said a third party shot him. He said he heard a shot when he was coming in the back way. He didn't tell me the third party's name."

Cross-examined by Attorney Cotter, counsel for Rogers, Tracey said:

"I knew the third party as Joe."

"After finding the body under the bed I mopped up the blood, but didn't open the door for Taitel to see the iron pot. I did steal Martha Bense' revolver."

Plead for Miss Masaryk Despite Reported Death as Spy in Austrian Jail

Miss Alice Masaryk, reported put to death as a spy in Austria. Members of the Woman's Peace Party in Massachusetts are still working in her behalf in the hope that the death sentence has not been carried out.

Efforts to save Miss Alice Masaryk, the Bohemian girl under sentence of death in Vienna, are still being made by her friends, despite the report that she has been executed. The mother of Miss Masaryk is an American.

E. V. Voska, secretary of the Bohemian National Alliance, said that his organization had received information through secret sources that Miss Masaryk's execution had been ordered because of alleged seditious statements in a paper published by her father and herself, and that the order had been carried out. Boston friends of the young woman, who spent two years in this country as a social settlement worker, say that if she is dead it is a repetition of the Edith Cavell tragedy.

The committee appointed by the Woman's Peace Party of Massachusetts to work for the release of Miss Masaryk, said, through Mrs. Louis D. Brandeis, one of its members, that it had received no official confirmation of the execution, and would therefore not cease in its efforts.

Others on the committee are Mrs. Andrew Winslow of Chestnut Hill, chairman; Mrs. Glendower Evans and Mrs. Earl Dreyfus.

SAY MAN HAD BABY IN PAPER BUNDLE

Southbridge, April 28.—Chief of Police Napoleon Giroux is today investigating a story told him by two local youths to the effect that they were accosted by a man carrying a bundle containing a baby. The young men, Edward Bernard, eighteen years, of Forest avenue, and Harry McDonald, twenty years, of West Main street, were returning to the latter's home. They said that on Marcy street, near Dresser street, a well dressed man accosted them, asking for tobacco. The man carried a brown paper bundle under one arm, which dropped to the sidewalk, the youth said, and they heard the wail of an infant. The stranger, uttering a hasty ejaculation, stooped, seized the bundle and made off down Marcy street, and disappeared.

ROUTS POSTOFFICE BURGLARS IN MAINE

North Monmouth, Me., April 28.—Wearing night clothing and unarmed, Postmaster William McKecchine early today put to flight three yeggmen who had entered the local postoffice. Awakened by the noise made in forcing the door of his private office, the postmaster hurried into the postoffice from his sleeping room in the rear. The men saw him and one of them shot at Mr. McKecchine, the bullet going wide of its mark. Without stopping the men turned and fled, disappearing down the railroad track. They secured neither money nor stamps.

MRS. VANDERBILT IS SERIOUSLY ILL

New York, April 28.—Mrs. William K. Vanderbilt has been seriously ill for ten days, it has been learned from some of her close friends. She was removed from her house at No. 660 Fifth avenue on Sunday and taken to her country place at Jericho, L. I., so that the tableaux vivants could be given at the Fifth avenue residence last Tuesday night. An operation was performed by Dr. Leo Frankel, her friends said. Since then she has been attended by trained nurses and several physicians.

FISH SO BIG THEY'RE MISTAKEN FOR LOGS

Winsted, Ct., April 28.—Suckers are running from Deep Highland Lake up shallow Sucker Brook, which flows through Lakeside Driving Park, where they are falling victims to the man with the spear.

Some of the suckers spawning in the brook this Spring are so large that men fording the stream with lighted torches and spears have mistaken the fish for logs, with the result that many have been drenched in the brook before regaining their feet.

VETO FOR TEMPLE UPHELD

The "Billy" Sunday Tabernacle bill received its death blow today when the House of Representatives voted to sustain Governor McCall's veto by 155 to 80.

All but two of the Democrats voted to stand back of the Governor. The debate preceding the vote was mild.

Representative Greenwood of Everett, in speaking for the bill said that the Governor's veto might be considered as legislating against leading citizens of the State, as a committee of 100 had gone to Baltimore to invite Sunday to this city. He said Sunday adherents asked only for temporary changes in the law, and that the danger to the public in a brick building was enhanced.

Representative John H. Sherburne of Brookline, speaking in favor of the veto, asked the legislators not to be swept away by enthusiasm for Billy Sunday. He said if an exemption were granted for his building, boxing managers would ask the same thing.

COMMENDS McCALL.

Representative George [illegible] Richards of Malden, a member of the Billy Sunday Campaign Committee, speaking in favor of passing the bill over the Governor's veto, said that tabernacles built of wood in other cities in which Sunday had spoken were safe.

Representative Thomas J. Giblin of East Boston commended the Governor for his action, declared him to be one of the greatest chief executives the State has ever had, and hailed him as possibly the next President, which declaration was greeted with applause.

Representative Beardsley of Boston, opposing the veto, said the members of the House and Senate had passed the Sunday Tabernacle bill after mature consideration and their judgment was not hasty.

Representative Herbert A. Wilson of Boston, speaking in favor of the veto, said that the President of the United States a few weeks ago spoke before 16,000 persons in a brick and masonry building in Kansas City and every man heard his voice. He said that when the armory in his district was recently dedicated, former Governor Walsh spoke in the hall shed which holds 20,000 people, and his voice could be heard in every part of the place.

He said that on Thursday night in his district 400 cattle were burned to death in a wooden building with floors littered with shavings, the same as he understood would be the case in the Sunday Tabernacle. He said the police declared the fire raced through the building in three minutes.

POINTS TO DANGER.

Representative Roland D. Sawyer of Ware, a clergyman, asked the Legislators to stand with the Govenor. He asserted that the erection of a Sunday Tabernacle would create a dangerous precedent.

Governor McCall's veto of the Billy Sunday Tabernacle Bill has aroused a stronger demand than ever that the evangelist come to Boston, according to former Mayor W. E. Blodgett of Woburn, chairman of the Tabernacle Committee.

"Why, this veto of the Governor has helped us," declared Mr. Blodgett today.

"The many expressions of determination on the part of representative persons that Billy Sunday must come to Boston, show that this veto is not a setback, but an awakener.

"Everyone is saying, 'Why, we must get Sunday here.' So don't think that the committee are discouraged.

"At our meeting, we found every one present full of enthusiasm. You can't prevent Billy Sunday from coming to Boston any more than you can prevent the sun from shining. Thousands want him and this is what the veto of the Governor has made evident.

WILL CONSULT SUNDAY.

"We must leave some matters to Mr. Sunday before we can decide. Though our committee has full charge of the placing of the tabernacle, we will not do anything without consulting the executive committee and Mr. Sunday as well.

"But don't get an idea that there is any discouragement over this veto. It has stirred up every one, especially people we could not get started before. Billy Sunday is coming to Greater Boston. Put it down in your calendar."

UNABLE TO AGREE ON THE ARMY BILL

Washington, April 28.—The Senate and House conferees were still deadlocked today in the effort to adjust the differences of the two branches of Congress over the army bill. The conference is trying to settle first the question of the size of the regular standing army, the Senate holding out for 250,000 men and the House contending for 140,000 men.

Calcium's Value in Tuberculosis

As a tonic and remedial agent in the treatment of tuberculosis this element is being studied by scientists and physicians everywhere.

For more than two decades users of Eckman's Alterative have tested its efficacy in such cases, for calcium chlorid is one of the chief constituents of this preparation, which has produced beneficial results in thousands of instances. And in this form it is so combined as to be easily assimilated.

If you are thus afflicted, a trial may prove this to be just what is needed to assist Nature in bringing about a return to normal health.

It is safe to take because it contains no poisonous or habit-forming drugs of any sort.

'FAIR AND WARMER'

Hark!

It is the W[illegible] [illegible] that [illegible] Fellow.

In the midst of Boston's blizzard—April 28, mark you—the Weather Man chirped blithely:

"Fair and warmer tomorrow."

It is a good forecast. Any forecast would be better than today's reality.

Greater Boston awakened to snow. The snow increased. Never were such big flakes. An AMERICAN staff photographer who went over to South Boston to photograph Assistant Secretary Roosevelt of the Navy limped back to the office with a story that he was knocked down by two snowflakes.

"On the level," protested "Hal," they came down big as feather beds."

This Winter set all kinds of weather records, but this blizzard made a new one. It is the latest in the Winter blizzard Boston has known for forty years. Or else next Winter has started in extra early.

How the Sun Tans and Whitens

A very curious condition which is set up by the action of the sun, tanning the skin and whitening linen, is explained in next Sunday's Boston AMERICAN.

ROADS AND RURAL CREDITS IN SENATE

Washington, April 27.—With war talk temporarily hushed in Congress the Senate today gave the farmers some long-delayed attention. Today's session was divided between good roads and rural credits. Republican senators say the national treasury cannot afford the $75,000,000 expenditure proposed during the next five years for aiding the States to build roads.

Two Gins, Five Beers, Mean $100 Fine to Autoist

Lowell, April 28.—Two gins and five beers are too much for a man to have in his system while driving an automobile, according to Judge Enright, who fined Fred W. Briggs, auditor of the Avery Chemical Works, $100 for operating a motor vehicle while under the influence of liquor.

Briggs denied he was intoxicated when arrested while driving his machine on Thorndike street at a rate exceeding thirty miles an hour. He told Judge Enright he had partaken of the aforementioned number of drinks only.

Allen F. Claflin, assistant superintendent of the chemical company, rushed to Briggs' defense and painted his reputation for sobriety in glowing colors. He brought a strong protest from the court when he declared Briggs "does not drink as much as anyone in this room."

"You don't mean that," said Judge Enright.

"Er—well, perhaps not," Claflin replied. "I mean that he drinks nothing to speak of."

PLAN TO REOPEN THE ARNOLD CASE

New York, April 28.—Deputy Police Commissioner Lord and Lieutenant Detective Williams may go to Providence Monday to arrange for the parole of Octave Charles [illegible]. The convict says he can lead to the West Point house where Dorothy Arnold is alleged to have been buried.

SNATCHED RING FROM FIANCEE

Fred M. Goodwin was in city court today on complaint of Miss Mary T. Collins that he assaulted her by forcibly removing their engagement ring from her finger while they were going to lunch together on April 11. He was discharged when Miss Collins acknowledged satisfaction. He is to pay for the preparations she made for the wedding.

Goodwin is assistant superintendent of [illegible] for the Boston Consolidated Gas Company, with office at No. [illegible] [illegible] street, in the South End. He is about thirty-five years old and of prepossessing appearance.

Miss Collins is twenty-two, lives in Malden and is employed in the same building where Goodwin's office is.

The complainant and defendant had seats apart in the rear of the courtroom while counsel talked with Judge Sheehan. A plea of not guilty was entered for Goodwin. Then George S. Harvey, counsel for Miss Collins, told the court that Goodwin forcibly removed Miss Collins' diamond engagement ring from her finger. After the case was settled Counsel Harvey made the following statement:

"Miss Collins and Mr. Goodwin were engaged last September to be married this June. She worked in the same building he did and regularly went to lunch with him. On April 11 she started to lunch with him as usual. He seized her and took her diamond engagement ring away from her. This was a surprise to Miss Collins, as she had no idea a break was coming.

"We agreed to sign a paper acknowledging satisfaction when Mr. Goodwin agreed to pay all expenses Miss Collins had incurred in preparing for her marriage. Mr. Goodwin's attorney has also surrendered to me the ring. Miss Collins refuses to take it. I am holding it for the present."

Asked what caused the trouble in the first place Mr. Harvey said it was religious differences.

THIEF GETS $1,000 GEMS IN PROFESSOR BULLOCK'S HOME

Professor Charles J. Bullock of Harvard College reported to the Cambridge police today that jewelry valued at $1,000 was stolen last night from his home at No. 6 Channing street.

Professor Bullock said he believed the theft took place between 6 and 6:30 o'clock while the family was at dinner, though the loss was not discovered until 10:30.

The thief got into the house through a rear door, which was unlocked. He crept up stairs to Mrs. Bullock's room, which he ransacked to find the jewel case.

The police say the theft bears the earmarks of a professional sneak thief. The jewelry stolen included rings and pendants, set with diamonds and pearls.

Pawtucket, R. I., April 28.—John Taylor, sixty-six, and his wife who is fifty, set out from their home in Bristol, Pa., April 17, to visit their daughter, Isabella, in the West End of Boston. Having no money, they decided to walk. They reached Pawtucket yesterday; the man spent the night at the Salvation Army Home and the woman at the police station in the matron's charge. Today they trudged away in the snow toward Boston.

STEAMER 2 MONTHS ON WAY FROM SPAIN

The British steamer Slingsby arrived today, two months out of Huelva, Spain. The cargo of iron pyrites choked the pumps until the Slingsby had to put in at St. Michaels, Azores, with fourteen feet of water in the hold.

Two Portugese lads, Miguel Pacheco and John de Sauza, came as stowaways. They have Boston relatives.

COL. CARNEGIE TESTIFIES TO FUSE PRICES

Ottawa, April 28.—Colonel Carnegie was again a witness today at the inquiry on Canadian munition contracts, and admitted he had made an "error of judgment" on graze fuse prices.

Carnegie took full responsibility for recommending contracts to the shell committee. But he said concerning the price of graze fuse:

"I've seen the error of my ways. I have seen that lower prices were paid in the United States for the same article. Personally, I am quite satisfied with the time fuse."

He explained American ammunition companies were made an allowance for a change in the order, requiring machinery alterations, and told his reasons for refusing to give a contract to the Russel Motor Company of Toronto.

General Sir Sam Hughes, Colonel Allison and several Americans interested in contracts for munitions are attending the hearing.

Is Based on Facts—Not Arguments

There is no miracle man in the clothing business. No individual or firm possesses the magic power of selling $25 Suits and Top Coats every day in the year at $15. Your common sense must tell you that this is an impossibility. Yet there are concerns constantly advertising such a proposition.

Georges $15 values are unmatchable, because our entire plan is based on the elimination of unnecessary cost. Our $15 garments are constructed in our own workrooms, cut over the same models as the most expensive garments in the stock, receive the same conscientious care and effort in the production, and are distributed solely through our chain of stores in New York, Buffalo, Boston, Phila. and Providence.

There is no monster national advertising campaign to maintain—no costly wholesale organization to support, no manufacturer's or middleman's profit to pay—no bad credits to equalize (we sell only for cash). ALL THESE SAVINGS GO DIRECT TO THE BUYER.

The assortments at $15 include the latest one and two button Sack and Norfolk models for the smart dresser, as well as the three-button styles for more conservative men. Made skeleton, silk trimmed, half or full lined. The materials embrace the latest plain flannels in greens, blues, browns and grays. ROOSEVELT CALLS THE WILSON FOREIGN POLICY TIMID AND WEAK; 'AN INVITATION TO WAR'

New York, April 28. — Theodore Roosevelt castigated the foreign policy of President Wilson, declaring it "timid and weak," and claiming that "its result would be to invite war instead of averting it," at a banquet of the Methodist Social Union of New York, where he made an urgent plea for adequate preparedness that "we may be able to do our duty to ourselves."

"I abhor war," said Colonel Roosevelt, "but to seek the peace of dishonor is not only in itself debasing, but also fails in the long run to secure even its own ignoble end."

Colonel Roosevelt's entire address was a plea for peace through ability to take our own part.

We are at the moment engaged in a little war in Mexico, a futile little war which may at any time burst out into a general blaze, which cannot possibly result in any real settlement of the situation. We are so engaged because our nation failed to do its duty from the outset in Mexican matters, failed repeatedly and continuously.

Nearly a hundred Americans, some women and children, some of them soldiers, were killed or wounded on American soil by Mexicans, on different occasions, before the raid at Columbus took place.

If the very first time such an incident occurred we had acted with instant decision and crossed the border, not within two or three days, but thirty minutes afterward, had inflicted immediate punishment on the offenders, punishment of a kind which would have shown the extreme unwisdom of repeating the offence, there would never have been a repetition of the offence.

If, when the lives of our men, women and children were in jeopardy at Tampico, the American fleet had been directed instantly to protect them and hold any aggressors in summary fashion to account instead of doing as was actually done, that is having our vessels steam away and leave British and German warships to do the duties we had failed to perform, if I say, such action had been taken at Tampico, and had been followed by similar action as regards Vera Cruz, in other words had been made a precedent for a consistent course, we should have escaped all of these troubles.

At the time that we favored Villa we permitted the export of arms and ammunitions to him; and these arms and ammunitions have been used to kill our own people. Then, when we preferred the Carranzistas against Villa we did the same thing with them, and within the last few weeks the Carranzistas, who were our nominal allies, joined with the Villistas in attacks upon our men, which cost the loss of gallant lives wearing the uniform of the United States.

After years in Mexico and repeated killings of our own people in our territory along the border, our unpreparedness is such that this mighty nation has not been able to grapple efficiently with the situation created by the raid of a bandit chief who had been beaten by his fellow bandit chiefs when they quarreled among themselves.

Immediate action at the outset and preparation would in all human probability have averted trouble. In any event such action and such preparation could not possibly have produced more trouble than has been produced in Mexico by the policy this nation has actually pursued.

So it is as regards Germany. Fourteen months have gone by since as a nation we informed Germany that we would hold her to a "strict accountability" if she did what she said she would do as regards submarine warfare. Germany did not believe that we meant what we said and for fourteen months our actions showed we did not mean what we said, and strict accountability turned into fourteen months of conversation on our part.

When we made that declaration we should have understood exactly what it means and the obligation it imposed upon us. It was a declaration so serious that mere severance of relations would have hardly made it good, and of course it could only be justified by immediate and thoroughgoing preparedness on our part.

Yet for fourteen months, after making that declaration and during those fourteen months, outrage after outrage w.s committed against us, of which the outrage as regards the Lusitania was merely the most conspicuous, we have not prepared in any shape or way to make good our words. And now we find that the lack of preparedness, the lack of decision and fortitude on our part, have resulted, not as our pacifists insist in increasing the likelihood of peace, but in bringing us to the verge of the gravest possible crisis.

If we get peace, now, it will be proof that a firm decision fourteen months ago would have saved the lives of many thousands of non-combatants, including many hundreds of women and children who have perished on the high seas because our action rightly made other nations believe that we did not mean what we said.

If fourteen months ago, it had been evidenced that we were preparing to assert our rights against wrong doing from any source, that we by taking both these rights and our duties seriously the result would have been not as the pacifists would have had us believe, danger of war, but would have meant a guarantee of peace, because it would have meant a guarantee that none of the things that have brought us within reasonable distance of war would have occurred.

We would have saved our self-respect, would have served humanity; we would have rendered war much less likely instead of more likely and we would have put ourselves in shape so that if the war had to come it would come on terms consonant with national safety and national honor.

GUGGENHEIM SAYS BROTHERS CHEATED HIM OF $10,000,000

New York, April 28.—Much of the mystery surrounding the suit of William Guggenheim, youngest of the seven sons of Meyer Guggenheim, founder of the vast interlocking system of mining, smelting and development enterprises bearing the family name, against his five living brothers, was cleared when the action came before Justice Benedict in the Supreme Court in Brooklyn for argument on a motion.

Then for the first time since October 13 last, when William Guggenheim served his brothers with copies of the summons and complaint, it was disclosed that he is seeking to recover $10,000,000 from them on the ground of fraud.

The complaint alleges that William Guggenheim signed away his co-partnership rights as one of the old firm of M. Guggenheim Sons, in what was known as the "Chuquicamata Prospect" without knowing the value of the property embraced in it. He now charges that the "Chuquicamata" enterprise is worth $60,000,000 or more.

Taught Girl Two Dances, Sues for $2,637 Payment

By International News Service.

New York, April 28.—The high cost of dancing was made known through a suit for $2,637 by Theodore Kosloff, director of the ballet at the Metropolitan Opera House, against Mrs. Winifred de Wolf.

For teaching her daughter Winifred the Villisse dance, he says, Mrs. de Wolf agreed to pay $250 extra and for teaching the Dance of the Four Seasons, $1,260. The costumes he avers cost him $262 and $575.

WORLD POLICE PLAN URGED BY FILENE

By International News Service.

Philadelphia, April 28.—E. A. Filene of Boston told the American Academy of Political and Social Science here today that the United States should prepare not merely for national defence, but for the defence of international law and morality as well.

He said in part:

"The most pressing problem that the war has forced upon us as a nation is the problem of adequate national defence combined with a policy that will look toward the mobilizing of the economic and military force of our own and of other nations for the support of law rather than the breaking of law.

"It is just such a policy that is advocated in the platform of the League to Enforce Peace, the central proposal of which advocates the establishment of an International Court and Council of Conciliation supported by a League of Nations agreeing to submit their differences thereto for examination before proceeding to make war, and further agreeing to use their combined force (first in the form of business and financial non-intercourse or in the form of military action if economic pressure proves ineffective) against any nation of the league that refuses to submit its difficulty for examination before making war."

Mr. Filene said he foresaw some grave dangers if some such agreement among nations was not made after the present war to restrain the use of force for aggrandizement. He said:

"Without an international policy that makes peace more permanent, the nations of Europe must enter another race for armaments which, together with their war debts and the rebuilding of their industrise, will create an urgent need for money that will force them to institute a destructive competition for markets that will react against he progress of democracy by complicating all of our fundamental problems.

"If, at the end of the war, no method but war is left for the settlement of the inevitable disputes that will arise between nations, Europe will be driven to institute this race for markets in order to prepare herself for the next war, and the probable effect of such a race for markets upon our American problems will be as follows:

"The foreign markets will be closed to us by prohibitive tariffs. We will meet from Europe the most keen competition; if this forces us to put up a prohibitive tariff to protect ourselves, we will face problems of direct taxation which have wrecked more than one nation. The American standard of wages may be seriously threatened."

Fannie Fern Andrew, secretary of the Central Organization for Durable Peace, said:

"Whether silence or speech should obtain in the present crisis, whether the war should check constructive action for the future welfare, is a question long since answered. It is pointed out by the American Journal of International Law that 'the principles of the law which should regulate the conduct of nations in their mutual intercourse were first stated in systematic form by the illustrious Grotius during the Thirty Years' War, and that the war itself caused him to write his treatise on 'The Rights of War and of Peace,' which convinced statesmen, bound nations and molded the thought of future generations, substituting as it did a rule of conduct based upon right reason for mere force.' Indeed, the world may need another Grotius."

NEWFOUNDLANDERS HEAR DR. HUDSON

Patriotism was the keynote of the meeting of the Newfoundland Patriotic Association in Lorimer Hall, Tremont Temple. A substantial sum was raised for Red Cross use among Newfoundlanders fighting with the allies. The Rev. Alan Hudson spoke on "The Newfoundlander, His Heritage and Opportunities."

A REMARKABLE TREE

The Fluid Distilled From It Heals and Soothes the Skin

Along the shores of the Mediterranean Sea, on stony hillsides and in waste places, grows a small, common prickly cedar tree (see picture) that scientists call Juniperus Oxycedrus. From the heartwood of this tree is distilled a brownish liquid having a distinct odor somewhat resembling tar. For hundreds of years the peasants of Spain, France, and Northern Africa have used this fluid to cure skin diseases both of man and of sheep, horses and other domestic animals. In more recent times this fluid was given the name of Oil of Cade, and the Medical Profession throughout the world employed it in treating eczema and many other skin troubles. It possesses remarkable healing, soothing and curative properties when applied to the skin, and seems to have been intended by Nature for this particular purpose. Oil of Cade, combined with other beneficial drugs, is used in making Cadum Ointment, the new skin remedy. It stops itching as soon as applied and begins the healing process immediately. Probably the brownish fluid from this remarkable tree is the very thing your skin requires to be made smooth and well. If you have pimples, eczema or skin irritations of any kind, get a 25c. box of Cadum Ointment today from your druggist, or send for free sample to the Omega Chemical Co., New York.

CALMLY ROB SAFE AS WHOLE TOWN LOOKS ON

Lowell, April 28.—While the inhabitants of Forge Village hung fascinated from their windows, and the local constabulary was conspicuous by its absence, four safe robbers, early today devoted two hours to wrecking the office and safe of the Abbott Worsted Company, securing $150.

The thieves arrived at 1 o'clock, in two automobiles, and left at three, during which time not one effort was made to interfere with them.

According to the Lowell police, the two automobiles, with their armed occupants, rolled up to the door of the office, and came to a stop. The men got out, and with revolvers in hand, they forced the door of the office, and placed a charge of nitroglycerine in the door of the safe.

The explosion awakened the majority of the 300 or more residents, who rushed to their windows.

The four men, undisturbed by the failure of the first explosion, calmly resumed operations. A second explosion rocked the town, then a third, which opened the safe, and the office as well. The thieves secured the $150, and drove away.

Clear Leo Frank in Settlement of Phagan Girl Case

Atlanta, April 28.—Charges made in the Jeffersonian, Tom Watson's publication, that settlement of the suit of Mrs. Coleman, mother of Mary Phagan, against the National Pencil factory was an acknowledgement of the guilt of Leo Frank, have been answered.

Sig Montag, treasurer, issued a statement that the written terms of the statement named Jim Conley as the guilty man and that the factory officials still consider Frank innocent. He said:

"In the receipt signed by Mrs. Coleman, it was expressly stated the company settled the case because it admitted Conley was the murderer."

MYSTERY IN DEATH OF EXETER, N. H., MAN

Exeter, N. H., April 28.—Medical Referee J. G. Knowlton performed an autopsy today on the body of W. E. Pelletier of Epping road, who was found dying in front of his house late at night under circumstances of some mystery. Mr. Pelletier, who was forty-two years old, was in good health, so far as known. Inquiry showed that he was in the town early in the evening and had been asked to see that an intoxicated man reached home safely.

HOLD TWO MEN CAPTURED AT GUN POINT

A young reserve officer attached to the Dudley street police station, Joseph W. Gaughan, early today captured two men at the point of his revolver while they were alleged to have been breaking into a liquor store in the South End.

They were later arraigned, pleaded not guilty to the charge of breaking and entering and were held in $800 each for a hearing May 2 on the charge of attempting to enter the store of Edward Kandor, at No. 84 Southampton street, they pleaded not guilty and were held in $100 each on this charge.

The two men told the police they are John J. McGoldrick, twenty-two, of Leonard street, Dorchester, and Edward V. Vaara, twenty-five, of East Canton street.

Gaughan was trying the doors on his beat and as he reached the corner of Massachusetts avenue and Southampton street saw two men at the bulkhead door of the liquor store of P. J. Smith & Company, No. 817 Massachusetts avenue.

PORT BOARD HAS TEXTILE SHOW EXHIBIT

"Ship by the port of Boston."

This slogan at the booth of the directors of the Port of Boston at the Textile Show in Mechanics Building does good service in calling attention to the strategic point of trade this city possesses.

Boston's foreign commerce last year amounted to over [illegible]. This included $175,000,000 in imports and $126,000,000 in exports. Cotton and wool represented [illegible] per cent of the imports.

Of these commodities, [illegible] pounds were received and [illegible] pounds shipped, making a total of 425,000 tons for the year.

A. J. Watersireet, of the Kerr Brothers Company, Newark, doubts if America can compete with Germany in making dyes. He said:

> You may get something out of dyes made from logwood, as far as wool is concerned, but in my judgment you can't depend upon logwood dyes for cotton.
> Just as soon as the war is over, then we will begin to get German dyes much cheaper than they can be made in this country. Even with a high tariff, it is doubtful if we could compete with Germany for some time to come.
> We must not give up hope, however.

SHAKESPEARE CONTROVERSY IS REVIVED

The revival of the Shakespeare-Bacon controversy through the decision of Judge Tuthill of Chicago in favor of Bacon will result in greater study of the disputed works, according to former Mayor James P. Baxter of Portland, Me., whose book on the controversy figured largely in the Chicago hearing.

Mr. Baxter is the author of "The Greatest of Literary Problems," dealing with the Baconian theory. His deposition was sent to the hearing and his book formed an exhibit.

Mr. Baxter says that there is a commercial propaganda in England and this country booming Shakespeare on account of the effort in Stratford, England, Shakespeare's birthplace, to raise a memorial fund. Certain important authorities favoring the Baconian authorship of Shakespearean works are ignored by the propaganda interests, according to the Portland expert. As to the effect of the Chicago decision, Mr. Baxter says:

"The result will no doubt be a revival of interest in the great works and their production on the stage, a matter of importance to the whole world, for all must admit that a knowledge of the works themselves is of more importance than a knowledge of their real authorship."

GERMANS DRIVE ON BRITISH TO SAVE LILLE

By FRANK TEWSON.

International News Service Staff Correspondent.

London, April 28.—The German offensive against the British lines over a front of eighty-five miles wide in which poison gas, heavy artillery and great masses of infantry are being used is regarded by military critics as an attempt to save Lille from capture.

Recent heavy losses of British troops in northern France are now explained. For four weeks, the English have been steadily pressing against the German lines north and west of Lille until they are now within six miles of the great German base.

The salvation of Lille is necessary for a preservation of the present German front, so the Germans were compelled to launch a counter drive, which, according to the official dispatches to the War Office is now in full swing.

From Ypres, in West Flanders, to a point south of Arras, the Germans have launched furious attacks without gaining any material result. The main assaults were delivered northwest of Lille and in Artois, where the British have taken over the French lines in order to relieve French troops for use at Verdun.

There is evidence that the German general staff in desperation is attempting a general offensive.

Fresh attacks are reported from the Verdun sector while the growing activity in Alsace-Lorraine and the closing of the Swiss frontier by the Germans indicates that they are preparing a drive at that end of the line.

The war office pays tribute to the Irish troops in the fighting around Loos. The Irish were thrown forward in a counter attack to drive the Germans from a trench section they had harried.

Desperate hand to hand fighting followed. The Germans lost heavily and the survivors fled.

Shell Towns Back of German Lines

By International News Service.

Berlin, April 28.—French and British guns are shelling towns and villages behind the German lines south of the Somme, according to the official statement issued by the German War office today. East of Vermelles in fighting with the British the Germans captured forty-six prisoners, including one captain, two machine guns and one mine-thrower. There is no change in the sector of the Meuse (Verdun front). The War Office statement says:

"West front—In fights in the region east of Vermelles forty-six English were captured, including one captain, as well as two machine guns and a mine-thrower.

"In the sector of the Meuse there is no change.

"The shelling of places behind our front—suburbs and villages—on the line south of the Somme and around Roye continues. Numerous casualties among women and children have resulted.

"In an aerial fight near Bethelainville an enemy aeroplane was shot down. Another was downed near Vert. A third was shot to earth by our anti-aircraft guns near Frapelle. A German air squadron bombarded the barracks and railway buildings at Ste. Menehould.

"East front—The positions are unchanged. Railway establishments and warehouses at Rjiczki, as well as several Russian aerodromes, were attacked by German aerial squadrons."

Expect Terrific Attacks on Verdun

Paris, April 28.—Bombardment of the French positions at Avocourt and Esne on Verdun's northwest front was continued by the Germans during the night.

The official communique issued by the French War Office this afternoon states, however, that no infantry attack was launched against the Meuse fortress. The apparent lull in the fighting at Verdun is still regarded as a prelude to terrific assaults in which the Germans will make their supreme effort to drive back the French and force them to reform their lines to pivot on Toul.

The French are fully prepared for the great assault.

The official French communique says:

"During the night not a single important development was reported on the entire front, with the exception of an intermittent bombardment in the regions of Avocourt and Esnes, and a certain activity by our trench engines in the sector of Regnieville, west of Pont-a-Mousson.

"Yesterday our aviators fought a number of aerial combats. An enemy machine, attacked by ours, descended seriously damaged near Douamont, the other in Montfaucon wood. In the region of Nesle-Chaulnes, a Fokker machine, fired upon by machine guns at Nieuport, fell within its own lines."

WAR SUMMARY

The Irish revolt today assumed proportions which made it one of the most important present developments of the war. Martial law in Ireland, the ports under the guns of the British fleet, and a large army being thrown into the country marked the situation as grave.

Coincidently comes news that the Germans have closed the Belgian frontier. This is a reasonable indication of troop movements against the British front in Flanders.

Figures are interesting here. The London Times says the British army has a nominal strength at present of 1,400,000 men. Of this number, it estimated 700,000 were available in France and 1,000,000 could be thrown into action there promptly.

But the Irish revolt has called to Ireland a force which combined with the troops already in Ireland may total 200,000 men. The potential strength of the British in Flanders is correspondingly less.

A determined German drive against the British lines in Flanders will complicate the situation for the British general staff considerably.

The Germans report small gains in attacks against the British lines near Givenchy. Elsewhere, French and German reports agree, there was only unimportant fighting.

There is considerable activity on the Russian front, but no important developments.

The usual fruitless fighting on the Austro-Italian front.

The British battleship Russell, dating from about 1900, struck a mine in the Mediterranean and sank, the British officially announce. One hundred and twenty-four men are missing.

A third contingent of Russians has landed in France.

17 PONY LICENSES GRANTED IN LYNN

Seventeen pony express licenses, giving their holders permission to deliver liquor in Lynn, were granted at a meeting of the Lynn Municipal Council today. Commissioner Bergengren was the only one to vote against the granting of these licenses; Mayor Newhall did not vote at all, and the other three voted in favor. They were Commissioners George R. Cornet, Thomas Campbell and John R. Graham.

Germany Asked for Final Reply

By JOHN EDWIN NEVIN.

International News Service Staff Correspondent.

Washington, April 28.—Ambassador Gerard has been instructed to explain to the German government that its answer in the submarine controversy must be final. He will tell the Kaiser that all that the United States is asking is a return to cruiser methods of warfare.

Advices from Berlin hinting that Germany will try to quibble regarding warning freighters are causing officials concern, but it is hoped that after Mr. Gerard has restated the American position the officials there will realize that they must go the entire way to avoid a break.

Call to Gerard Held Good Sign

Berlin, April 28, via London.—James W. Gerard, the American ambassador, and Joseph C. Grew, secretary of the American embassy, have left Berlin for German army headquarters for an audience with Emperor William. It is evident Emperor William wished a thorough personal talk with the ambassador in order to obtain a clearer view of the American position on the submarine issue.

The invitation is regarded in financial circles as a good omen. Nevertheless, experienced observers consider the situation still very serious and believe that the mere fact of the ambassador's meeting with the Emperor is of less importance than what was done at the conference at German headquarters.

RUSSIANS ROUT TURKS SOUTH OF BITLIS

Petrograd, April 28.—Overcoming enormous difficulties, the left wing of the Grand Duke Nicholas' army, in the Caucasus, has driven the Turks from their strongly fortified positions in the mountains south of Bitlis, and is now advancing toward Diarbakr, on the Tigris River, according to official advices received from Tiflis today.

Sasun, a small but strong fort, built at a height of more than 3,500 feet, almost due west of Bitlis, has fallen into Russian hands, the garrison fleeing after defending the post for a day.

How the Sun Tans and Whitens

A very curious condition which is set up by the action of the sun, tanning the skin and whitening linen, is explained in next Sunday's Boston AMERICAN.

STOCKS AND INVESTMENTS

By W. H. ROSS, Financial Editor

Stocks were still strong at noon in New York, but a little below the best prices of the morning. A few issues which had made gains were showing losses. During the first hour the market was active. It was dull in the second. It is said the public bought stocks at the start and this support was held partly accountable for the rise. Covering of shorts was another contributory influence. Anaconda showed the most strength in the copper group. Coal issues were strong.

Gains at 12 o'clock included Coal Products 3, Pittsburgh Coal 1⅝, American Can ⅞, U. S. Steel ⅛, American Smelting 2⅞, Lackawanna Steel 1, U. S. Smelting 3, Anaconda ⅝, Utah Copper ½, American Zinc ⅞, Butte & Superior ⅜, Car & Foundry ½, American Loco. 1, Baldwin ⅞, Crucible ⅝, Distillers 1, Maxwell ¼, Studebaker ⅝, Mexican Petroleum 1¼, Westinghouse ⅜, South Pacific ⅛, Reading 1¼, New York Central 1 and St. Paul ⅝.

Among declines were Industrial Alcohol ¾, Marine preferred ½ and Woolen common ⅞.

Among gains in Boston included U. S. Smelting 2½, American Zinc 1, Butte & Superior ½, New Haven ⅜, Allouez 1, Isle Royale ½, Calumet & Arizona ⅜, Copper Range ¾, Greene-Cananea ½, Old Dominion ½, Osceola ¼, Wolverine ½ and United Fruit ½.

Prices were up in New York at the opening, but gains were fractional at the very start, except Crucible Steel, which advanced more than a point. Railroads were still in the centre of the speculative stage when the curtain rose. They were unusually active and held the strength of yesterday. Fear of labor troubles is diminishing. Increased Norfolk & Western disbursements have done more than prosperity reports could do in promoting interest and demand for securities of this class.

Many market operators are firm in the belief that rails and coppers are due eventually to advance almost as sensationally as war order issues did last year. Those who hold to this opinion believe that there will be no sustained bull movement until standard stocks take the lead, and that the public will then make the market. This is the day when Germany is expected to answer the ultimatum by President Wilson, but stocks did not indicate there is much worry as to the nature or effect of the reply. Recent foreign events have been startling enough to focus attention again on what is going on in Europe.

After a firm opening the price trend continued upward, but it was not pronounced. There is a feeling that domestic business has improved so much that this country is becoming less and less dependent for prosperity upon foreign buying of war supplies and is in less danger of a trade reaction when the struggle in Europe ends.

At the end of half an hour the market was still strong and among issues to show a point or more gain were Bethlehem Steel, up 13, Baldwin, American Locomotive, Crucible, Studebaker, American Smelting and Industrial Alcohol. War stocks were the most active class. Railroad gains continued to be fractional. This was true of coppers as well.

The Boston market began as quiet as usual, but it was strong at the start and subsequently local trading lacked any distinctive feature. No issue stood out on account of activity. American Zinc and U. S. Smelting were the most dealt in. There was a little more business in coppers than has been the rule around the opening of late.

U. S. WILL SEEK TO AVERT BIG COAL STRIKE

Washington, April 28.—Administration officials are greatly concerned over the possibility of a general strike of the anthracite miners. Secretary of Labor Wilson told the President at today's Cabinet meeting that his department would do everything possible to arrange a compromise between the miners and the operators.

Up to the present, the Department of Labor has taken no part in the discussions because the committees were trying to reach an agreement. With a deadlock reached, however, and an almost certainty that a strike will follow unless an agreement can be reached, the department now plans to step into the breach and endeavor to arrange a compromise.

FINED FOR TAKING STOLEN PROPERTY

Varton Terjanian, keeper of a news store on Dorchester street, was fined $10 by Judge Logan in South Boston Court today for receiving eight balls that were stolen from the South Boston High School gymnasium a week ago. The defendant appealed.

Hughes Picked by Quincy Dog as Next President

"Go into the library, 'Major,' and fetch me the photograph of the next President of the United States," said former Mayor Eugene R. Stone of Quincy, to his pet Newfoundland dog today. The dog returned a minute later with a photograph of Justice Hughes of the United States Supreme Court.

Quincy's former chief executive had placed photographs of President Wilson, Ex-President Roosevelt and Justice Hughes on the floor of the room to illustrate the dog's sagacity and knowledge of politics.

"Major" is well known in Quincy. Recently he went to the Quincy City Hall with a $2 bill in his mouth to renew his license. He accompanies his master to the train each day.

Supreme Court to Hear Spellman and Brown Case

Providence, April 28.—Attorney John B. Edwards for Victor Brown and Henry Spellman, convicted of the murder of Dr. C. Franklin Mohr, will file a transcript of testimony and bill of exceptions with the Supreme Court, Judge Charles F. Stearns, trial judge, having granted a motion that the State pay $300 necessary for the transcript of testimony.

Attorney Edwards said today the motion would not be argued before September.

This move will not necessitate a delay in sentencing George W. Healis, the chauffeur who turned State's evidence and pleaded guilty to complicity in the plot. Attorneys say it may be two years before the motion can be heard, owing to the number of cases filed already.

OFFER NEW SITE FOR DETENTION STATION

A proposition is on foot to have the new Boston immigration station located on the South Boston waterfront, near Commonwealth Pier, instead of on the East Boston side, where the government has already acquired a site.

The Port Directors have made Immigration Commissioner Henry J. Skeffington an offer to exchange land near the Commonwealth Pier for the government site in East Boston, foot for foot.

It is understood the government will accept this offer, providing the Port Directors can furnish an actual waterfront site on the South Boston side.

Meanwhile Commissioner Skeffington is still seeking a temporary location. He has in mind at present two possibilities, one at the Wit building, No. 287 Atlantic avenue, the other in a block near Commercial street which a film concern is just vacating.

Resinol Soap
a friend to poor complexions

Resinol Soap is not only unusually cleansing and softening, but its regular use helps nature give to the skin and hair that beauty of perfect health which it is impossible to imitate. Tendency to pimples is lessened, redness and roughness disappear, and in a very short time the complexion usually becomes clear, fresh and velvety.

The soothing, restoring influence that makes this possible is the Resinol which this soap contains and which physicians have prescribed for over twenty years, in Resinol Ointment, in the care of skin and scalp troubles.

If the skin is in bad condition through neglect or an unwise use of cosmetics, Resinol Soap should at first be aided by a little Resinol Ointment. Resinol Soap is sold by all druggists and dealers in toilet goods.

TWO HURT WHEN AUTO HITS WAGON

Mrs Lottie Morrill, a seventy-one year old widow of No. 51 Fremont street, Winthrop, and her son, Herbert W. thirty-seven, were badly shaken up and bruised early today when the automobile in which they were riding collided with a milk wagon in the Germantown section of West Roxbury, and overturned, pinning them beneath the wreckage.

According to the police, the auto, a light touring car was proceeding along Washington street, toward the city. The milk wagon, owned by A. Solomon of No. 129 Needham street, Needham and driven by Izzy Blotcher of No. 175 Quincy street, Roxbury, was coming in the opposite direction.

As the auto neared the wagon, Morrill tried to turn out of the car tracks. The car skidded and crashed into the wagon and overturned. Sergeant Nixon of the West Roxbury station and a squad of men from the station were summoned, and after some difficulty the car was lifted and Morrill and his mother taken out.

Both refused medical treatment and went home on the street cars. The automobile was almost a total wreck.

Harvard's Name Taken in Vain, Says Alumnus

The name of Harvard is being used "in vain" more times than that of any other institution in the country, complains Rudolph Altrocchi, Harvard alumnus. Writing in the Harvard Alumni Bulletin, he says:

> The name of Harvard is used in not less than fifty different trades, stores, companies, etc., and one finds it at least once in all of the twenty-four largest cities of the country, excluding Cambridge.

Fit Fabric Fashion

Those are the things that everybody looks for in buying clothes. But there's another very essential feature that shouldn't be overlooked, although the unpracticed eye is not always able to detect its presence or absence. We refer to

Fine Workmanship

Good tailoring is the very soul of good clothes. Good style and good fit can't remain good very long unless they're founded on good tailoring. Even a medium grade of fabric finely tailored makes a more satisfactory garment than a better fabric that has been thrown together.

It's our business to know all the little niceties which distinguish good tailoring from the near good, to see that only the good shall ever find its way to this Live Store, and to pass it along to our customers with our guarantee that it IS good.

Kuppenheimer Clothes

exhibit the finest tailoring known

So careful and so accurate is the workmanship in these garments that The House of Kuppenheimer alone is able to successfully produce half-sizes in men's clothes. The supreme fit, the graceful hang, the perfect style and all around good looks of Kuppenheimer clothes are made absolutely permanent by the super-excellent Kuppenheimer tailoring. If you've never worn these fine clothes, try them now and learn the extra service and satisfaction and value in them.

UMPIRE KLEM ran Manager McGraw of the Giants to the bench in Tuesday's game with the Braves and repeated his banishment yesterday.

After the game was over McGraw, lying in wait for Klem, assailed the arbiter in the [illegible] possible language, according to fans who saw the "run in" and heard the New York skipper's [illegible]tion.

Klem kept his head as long as possible, state bystanders, but when he finally couldn't stand the abuse any longer, leaped at McGraw. Bob Emslie, Klem's partner in the Braves-Giants series, was quick to jump between the pair and drag Klem away.

GUILFORD IS GOLF CHOICE

Woodland Star Shining in Wollaston Tournament—R. S. Lyons Showing Sterling Form.

PLAY has gone through the first round in the first open amateur golf tournament of the season at the Wollaston Golf Club.

There were a few upsets yesterday [illegible] today in the second round, the [illegible] be much closer, with three players from Wollaston and two each from Woodland and Brae-Burn [illegible] Albemarle competing.

[illegible] representatives of Woodland [illegible] are the favorites for [illegible] with R. S. Lyons, [illegible] Albemarle player, as the [illegible] and Jesse Guilford, Woodland, standing out as [illegible] the other.

[illegible] pairings for the second round:

R. S. Lyons, Albemarle, vs. A. H. Goodale, Wollaston; [illegible] Gallagher, Wollaston, vs. Walter Woodland, F. Winsor, Brae Burn, vs. Jesse Guilford, Woodland, F. [illegible] Wollaston, vs. G. H. Foster, Brae [illegible]

Butler-Mack on at Arena May 9

WALTER BUTLER and Frankie Mack have been signed to have it [illegible] Arena May [illegible]

IF Butler is fit, not too fine, as was [illegible] when he recently met Mack at the Hip, he ought to fetch [illegible] Leachmo rival this time. But with the bout fought as before, Mack will be [illegible] hard luck if he doesn't get the verdict.

SMACKS like Johnny Ertle, the bantamweight champion, and Mickey Brown for May [illegible] Kewpie [illegible] has offered a pudgy prize to exhibit. The go, if arranged, will be for the title.

NEXT week's main muss will be [illegible] by Johnny Harvey and Willie Becker, a pair of Greater New York swatters. Mah Marray & Co [illegible] the number will please.

AL LIPPE has Frankie Brown, the [illegible] bantamweight member of his sta[illegible] [illegible] matched with Young Marino for Philadelphia tomorrow night and with Frankie Burns for Baltimore Decoration Day.

"CHICK" WEST, the Holyoke welter, has had an exciting week. He whipped K. O. Paltz at Woonsocket Monday night—Joe McCarthy, Jimmy Donovan's manager, says it wasn't even close—but the referee decided against him. Likewise did "Chick" appear to shade Dave Powers at the Arena Tuesday night, but again he was adjudged the loser.

MANAGER RILEY of Jeff Gallant rises to remark that his charge met Young Cosmos on two days' notice, thinks the kid did pretty well and wants for a return bout with the New Bedford boy.

The Secret of Public Speaking

Advice to a Young Man Who Has a Great Flow of Words but Finds Himself Tongue-Tied in the Presence of a Large Audience.

By GARRETT P. SERVISS

"I AM desirous of being informed [illegible] the cause of me being speechless when I am called to speak before a large audience. My friends advise me that I would make a very good lecturer, as I am able to talk on anything eloquently [illegible] with very intelligent [illegible] and am able to dwell on any [illegible] but when I am called upon to [illegible] a speech I lose my nerve and [illegible] not able to go further [illegible]"

YOU suffer from self-consciousness, from want of training in self-control which can be acquired only through experience, and from disciplined thinking and a deep fund of knowledge about your subjects. You should also study a little more closely the grammatical structure of the English language. Your facility in speaking "eloquently on anything" is, at present, a disadvantage to you. Real eloquence does not consist in a flood of [illegible]. It is based only on profound and serious thought and genuine feeling.

There is no finer or more useful art than that of public speaking. It calls into exercise the highest powers of the mind, but those powers cannot be set to work upon nothing. They must have fuel to burn, or they must have something to hew and shape.

The material on which they work is knowledge, gained from study, observation, experience and meditation. The greatest orators the world has ever seen would be speechless if called upon to address a large audience on a subject about which they knew virtually nothing and on which their thoughts had never dwelt.

Their practiced self-control might enable them to babble a while, but what they said would be without [illegible], point or value. It is not an easy thing to face alone a great battery of eyes, behind which you know that there is a multitude of [illegible] informed and critical minds.

When you find your own mind [illegible] and your tongue speechless in such a situation, it is because you sub-consciously realize the fact that you have only words, [illegible] ideas based on previous thinking and study to offer.

The words will not come without the thoughts behind them, and only the speaker of long experience can express [illegible] thoughts in the presence of a waiting audience. And he cannot do so effectively unless his subject is familiar to him. You should never try to make a speech about anything that you have not thoroughly studied [illegible] then you may be [illegible] if you let your thoughts wander back to yourself [illegible] to what your [illegible] may be thinking about you.

Keep your [illegible] on [illegible] subject. If you know all about it it will [illegible] forget yourself entirely. [illegible] fail you for [illegible] don't [illegible] stare helplessly at the audience, but go back and repeat what you have just been saying, in other words if possible. Thus you will get your mind on the track again.

Personally, I believe in extempore speaking, even for a lecture, or other formal discourse. History has long asserted that Demosthenes and Cicero, and other celebrated orators of antiquity, wrote their speeches beforehand and recited them from memory. Undoubtedly they wrote them, but I suspect that the speeches they actually delivered were mainly improvised, at least as to the words and sentences.

They wrote for posterity, but they must have known that a recited speech cannot have the power over an audience of one that comes new-clothed from the mind. An actor never produces upon his hearers the electric effects that are within the reach of an orator.

When a lecture has to be repeated many times there is nothing that troubles and hampers the speaker more than passages which he has got by heart in spite of himself. If he can vary them a little, or take them by a different handle he finds new life in them. If they are stale to him they will be stale to his hearers.

There is a famous instance in point. Mirabeau, the great orator of the opening scenes of the French Revolution, wrote out [illegible] of his great speeches beforehand. That gave him complete command of his subject. But, says M. Roustan, it was only when Mirabeau threw aside all manuscript notes to launch himself in eloquent improvisations that his entire genius burst forth.

Then he swept everything before him, and his thoughts and emotions became those of the whole audience. Daniel Webster once electrified the United States Senate with a wonderful passage about the drumbeat of England, "circling the earth, and keeping company with the hours."

When asked he said that the idea had occurred to him years before when he was standing on the ramparts of Quebec. But it lay dormant in his mind, and suddenly sprang to expression in the midst of his speech. He also said when questioned about his preparations for his greatest speech, the "Reply to Hayne," that he had been preparing it all his life.

That is the best possible preparation for a speaker. When Wendell Phillips, on a few occasions, used notes his admirers said that he seemed "like an eagle walking."

So do not be discouraged by your failures. You will get the mastery over your self-consciousness in good time if you study hard and remember that the art of oratory is not only one of the finest, but one of the noblest, as long as it is exercised for liberty, humanity and the advancement of mankind.

Mothers are not to blame for wishing to know every detail concerning the contest, but a careful reading of the daily AMERICAN will give all necessary information and save the editor's time for other important matters.

Several physicians have volunteered to help verify blanks, measurements and score blanks. In cases of extreme necessity they will help measure and examine infants in their districts. However, it is best that each mother resort to the family physician or some neighborhood doctor.

Dr. Mary T. Moore advises an inquiring mother:

> Eczema comes from so many reasons that it is little use to prescribe without understanding the special cause. I advise a mother either to see her physician or go to the out-patient department of some hospital. I am unable to give specific advice in this case.

"AS YOU LIKE IT" AT CASTLE SQUARE

The second play in the Shakespeare revival at the Castle Square Theatre, "As You Like It," scored a distinct success in spite of a badly injured knee, which gave to John Craig a preceptable limp, and robbed Orlando of some boyishness.

"As You Like It," as produced with a much enlarged company, was a full rounded performance of high standard. Both Orlando and Rosalind, impersonated by John Craig and Mary Young, were played with a charm and finish which reminded some of the audience of the Augustin Daly company, New York, where both these stars received their Shakespearean training.

The well known soliloquy by the Melancholy Jaques, "All the World's a Stage," spoken by Theodore Freibus, was exceptionally well delivered, and met with a response from a large audience seldom accorded a single passage.

Motor Notes.

By J. C. KERRISON.

Judge Bruce of Milton gave an interesting preparedness talk to the members of the Bay State Automobile Association yesterday. He advocated preparedness which would impress nations with the fact that the United States was not only willing, but also was in a position to repel any attack upon her national honor, or any aggression of her international rights.

He contended that it was just as important to safeguard our national honor by preparedness as it was to safeguard the welfare of a city and town by the establishment of an adequate police force.

Sales Manager R. T. Hodgkins of the Studebaker Corporation, spent yesterday in Boston visiting Manager Jordan of the wholesale branch and Retail Distributor Joseph Donovan.

He talked most interestingly about the situation in general, and the Studebaker affairs in particular. He said the Studebaker Company is now producing 7,000 cars a month, and beginning in June, will increase this to 8,000 cars.

"It is not a question of sale of cars, so much as it is production and allotment," said Mr. Hodgkins. "We have not contracted for more cars than it is possible for us to produce, and yet we could go out to our dealers today and more than double their various allotments.

"Business conditions all over the country are excellent, and what is more, give every indication of remaining so for at least two years. We, in particular, and the country as a whole, have nothing to fear in the way of a diminution of business."

A CONDUCTOR HAD STOMACH TROUBLE

G. C. Bean of 91 Franklin St. Feeling 90 Per Cent. Better in His Health.

"Twenty-five per cent. of our educated people die because of ignorance," is the recent statement of a noted scientist. Although paradoxical, the truth of this statement is significant, especially with respect to those who live in the cities. Boston may be taken as an apt illustration that will apply to American cities in general where there is a constant hustle and strife to earn a living, to make a fortune, or to excel in any line of endeavor. The grind, whether of physical labor, mental toil or the exaction of society, tells upon the nerves and human structure. The pace is too fast and is far astray from the simple plan of nature.

After a world-wide search, Plant Juice was discovered, which is a combination of plants from the juices of which was extracted a tonic that has proven to be the greatest of all known remedies for the stomach, liver, kidneys and blood. This is now widely known throughout the larger cities of the country on account of its revivifying and reconstructive action, which is so apparent that the user finds himself infused with new life and his bodily ills vanish as though by magic.

Plant Juice is daily gaining converts in Boston, as is attested by the following testimonial of Mr. G. C. Bean, who lives at No. 91 Franklin Street, and is a well-known street car conductor of this city. He said:

"I have had stomach trouble, indigestion and dyspepsia for the past three years. My food fermented on my stomach, causing gas and a heavy, bloated condition, with such severe pains all over my body that I thought I had pleurisy. I was restless and nervous and could not sleep at night. I had tried a great many kinds of medicine, but got no benefit whatever from any of them. I heard of Plant Juice and have taken it for a short time, and now have no pain whatever and am feeling like a new man. I can recommend it to everyone, for it is a first-class tonic for stomach trouble, and I feel 90 per cent. better."

The Plant Juice Man is at the Drug Department of the Houghton & Dutton Co.'s store, where he is daily meeting the local public and introducing and explaining the merits of this remedy.—Advertisement.

HAVE ROSY CHEEKS AND FEEL FRESH AS A DAISY—TRY THIS!

Says glass of hot water with phosphate before breakfast washes out poisons.

To see the tinge of healthy bloom in your face, to see your skin get clearer and clearer, to wake up without a headache, backache, coated tongue or a nasty breath, in fact to feel your best, day in and day out, just try inside-bathing every morning for one week.

Before breakfast each day drink a glass of real hot water with a teaspoonful of limestone phosphate in it as a harmless means of washing from the stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels the previous day's indigestible waste, sour bile and toxins, thus cleansing, sweetening and purifying the entire alimentary canal before putting more food into the stomach. The action of hot water and limestone phosphate on an empty stomach is wonderfully invigorating. It cleans out all the sour fermentations, gases and acidity and gives one a splendid appetite for breakfast.

A quarter pound of limestone phosphate will cost very little at the drug store, but is sufficient to demonstrate that just as soap and hot water cleanses, sweetens and freshens the skin, so hot water and limestone phosphate act on the blood and internal organs. Those who are subject to constipation, bilious attacks, acid stomach, rheumatic twinges, also those whose skin is sallow and complexion pallid, are assured that one week of inside-bathing will have them both looking and feeling better in every way.—Advertisement.

Alkali Makes Soap Bad for Washing Hair

Most soaps and prepared shampoos contain too much alkali, which is very injurious, as it dries the scalp and makes the hair brittle.

The best thing to use is just plain mulsified cocoanut oil, for this is pure and entirely greaseless. It's very cheap, and beats the most expensive soaps or anything else all to pieces. You can get this at any drug store, and a few ounces will last the whole family for months.

Simply moisten the hair with water and rub it in, about a teaspoonful is all that is required. It makes an abundance of rich, creamy lather, cleanses thoroughly and rinses out easily. The hair dries quickly and evenly, and is soft, fresh looking, bright, fluffy, wavy and easy to handle. Besides, it loosens and takes out every particle of dust, dirt and dandruff.—Advertisement.

Couldn't Keep His Young Bride

Six Editorials from College Newspapers---Which Are the Best?

Copyright, 1916, by the Star Company

THE energetic, ambitious young men of a college are usually associated with the college newspaper. The opinions of college newspapers today foreshadow the thought of a class of men that will be important in national affairs thirty years from now.

In his chapter on statesmen in the Philosophical Dictionary, Voltaire said that he wrote not for the statesmen in office, but for the young men who would be statesmen long after his death.

Today's editors of college newspapers will be doing important work when the so-called "big editors" of today are as completely forgotten as last year's moving picture.

The college newspapers of the East recently entered into a friendly competition as to which should produce the best editorial.

From a large number of articles, excellently written, six were selected as the six best. The editor of this newspaper was asked to decide upon the best and the next best of the six, and to present a gold and silver medal to the best and the next best, respectively.

Concerning an editorial, we should ask four questions:

FIRST, WILL THE EDITORIAL DO GOOD?

The editorial that will do the most good is the best editorial, no matter what the subject or how written.

SECOND, WOULD IT BE READ - that is to say, are the subject and the appearance interesting?

THIRD, WOULD IT BE UNDERSTOOD?

FOURTH, WOULD IT BE BELIEVED?

These four questions are really all included in the first question. For an editorial does good only if it IS read, understood and believed.

Now for the six best college editorials.

The Harvard Crimson editorial is headed, "The Need of More Radicalism." The subject is important. Every college newspaper should discuss it. The Harvard editor might have gone farther without being too radical. He quotes the statement, "Nothing could be more solidly conservative than American undergraduate youth." He realizes that "real intellectual turmoil" is necessary if the owner of the intellect is to amount to anything.

He might write another editorial, explaining that radicalism and THOUGHT are identical.

The editorial from the Trinity Tripod is headed "Cleverness and Labor." The editor regrets that when a man succeeds in his college without hard work or intense concentration he is admired, whereas the plodder, whatever his ultimate success, is considered inferior.

It is a sound editorial, calculated to inspire respect for hard work, and to make boys realize that REAL SUCCESS is preceded by hard work always.

The writer might have quoted Boileau's remark to young Racine, who bragged of the ease with which he did his work: "I hope to teach you to write with more difficulty."

The Cornell Daily Sun editorial is called "La Debacle. This editorial has one great merit. It is LOCAL, deals with what is actually happening, with the college problem of the day. It reveals that the young gentlemen of the college fraternities have disgraced themselves, violating a gentlemen's agreement. This sad occurrence the editor compares with the French Revolution. He apparently does not approve of the French Revolution. Later, he may feel more kindly toward the revolution, which abolished torture for witnesses, starvation as a permanent feature in the life of peasants, freedom from taxation for a privileged class, and the divine right of kings and their ladies to spend other people's money.

Later, also he will perhaps realize that the terrible conduct of the fraternities really indicated considerable valuable energy within those fraternities.

The Cornell writer in days to come will perhaps name and support some great man for President. And that great man, not unlikely, will be the very black sheep who, as the editor says, was responsible for that which constitutes "by far the most damnable blot that has been foisted upon any fraternity agreement in the history of the university."

The University of Michigan Daily tells of four boys. Three were concentrated and specialized; they became great. One was Darwin, one Disraeli, one Browning.

The fourth had scattering talents. Nobody ever heard of him.

It is a good editorial. The editor might have added that the fourth boy is THE REAL NATION, and should be studied carefully. The farmer gets his fame, but not his money, from the three big apples in the orchard. The nation is built of the ordinary boy who grows up into the ordinary man and is not heard of.

The Daily Princetonian editorial is headed: "An Unpopular Arraignment of a Popular Arrangement." This well-written editorial says that it is all very well to talk about democracy in our colleges, but that colleges need an aristocracy. The editor's idea is that the dull, average crowd is apt to hold back the brilliant intellectual comet. The average student, says the editor, has too much power over the exceptional student. The aristocracy which the editor advocates is an aristocracy "of effort and achievement."

Very sound, and that is exactly what the word aristocracy means—"Rule by the best"—although we usually forget the meaning.

The Dartmouth editorial is headed, "On Ships and Shoes and Sealing Wax."

That heading proves intelligence. The first thing is to ATTRACT ATTENTION. That line will do it.

The editorial is made up of college generalities—Why do men go to college—to learn, to make friends, to become athletes? It is interesting to college men, but not quite definite enough to hold the attention of those so old that they have forgotten just how important college days and ideas seem to boys.

All six editorials are good. The committee that selected the best six from all the college newspapers of the East left it to us to select the best two, and since we had to make a selection, we directed the awarding of the first prize gold medal to the writer of the editorial, "Breadth and Specialization," published in the Michigan Daily.

And we awarded the second, silver medal, to the writer of the editorial headed "Cleverness and Labor," in the Trinity Tripod.

We do not say that these are the most ably written. And they may not be the best for college newspaper purposes. But of the six editorials, if all were printed in a daily newspaper of wide circulation, we believe that the two chosen would be the two most widely read.

Peril of the Drug Habit

From "Habits That Handicap"

By Charles B. Towns

PART TWO

ONE of the busiest and most successful doctors of my acquaintance has used as little as half a grain a year and another told me he had never gone beyond two grains.

Both of these men know very well that only a small percentage of drug takers have begun the practice in consequence of a serious ailment, and that even this small percentage might have been decreased by proper medical treatment directed at the cause rather than at its symptom, pain.

An opiate, of course, never removes the cause of any physical trouble but merely blunts the pain due to it, and it does this by tying up the functions of the body. It is perhaps a conservative estimate that only 10 per cent of the entire drug consumption in this country is applied to the purpose of blunting intolerable pain.

Opiates Rarely Needed

Thus 90 per cent of the opiates used are, strictly speaking, unnecessary. In the innumerable cases that have come under my observation 75 per cent of the habitual users became such without reasonable excuse. Beginning with small occasional doses, they realized within a few weeks that they had lost self-control and could not discontinue the use of the drug.

A very common source of this habit lies in the continued administration of an opiate in regular medical treatment without the patient's knowledge or consent, or in the persistent use of a patent medicine, or of a headache or catarrh powder that contains such a drug.

The man who takes an opiate consciously or unconsciously, and receives from it a soothing or stimulating or pleasant effect, naturally turns to it again in case of the same need. The time soon arrives when the pleasurable part of the effect—if it was ever present—ceases to be obtained; and in order to get the soothing or stimulating effect, the dose must be constantly increased as tolerance increases.

With those who take a drug to blunt a pain which can be removed in no other way, it is fulfilling its legitimate and supreme mission and admits of no substitute.

Where it was ever physically necessary, and that necessity still continues, an opiate would seem inevitable. But the percentage of such sufferers, as I have said, is small. The rest are impelled simply by craving—that intolerable craving which arises from deprivation of the drug.

Action Always the Same

But whether a man has acquired the habit knowingly or unknowingly, its action is always the same. No matter how conscientiously he wishes to discharge his affairs, the drug at once begins to loosen his sense of moral obligation, until, in the end, it brings about absolute irresponsibility. Avoidance and neglect of customary duties, evasion of new ones, extraordinary resourcefulness in the discovery of the line of least resistance, and finally amazing cunning and treachery—this is the inevitable history.

In-Shoots

It is often difficult to draw the line between caution and cowardice.

Poverty has saved a lot of us from being harvested by the fool killer.

Reformed villains always appear to take a lot of pride in their past cussedness.

Fine table linen never flavors a poorly cooked meal.

Every election demonstrates that a lot of us do not vote as we pray.

Some girls never seem to learn anything at boarding school except to be snippy.

The domineering girl seldom lands anything but a soft slob for a husband.

So live that the life insurance men will not be the only mourners when you pass out.

The chill of Winter and the heat of Summer always appear to have the same effect upon the habitual growler.

More Truth Than Poetry

By James J. Montague

The Ill Omen

"Senator Wagner, of Tammany, flatly refuses to accept the New York Postmastership from the Administration."—News item.

NO wonder Doc Bryan gives tongue to weird cries,
And registers shock and and alarm and surprise;
No wonder the President's intimate friends
Discuss in dismay what this wallop portends.
When a duck will not swim, when a dog will not bark,
When a tomcat declines to stay out after dark,
When a goat won't eat cans, and a boy won't eat pie,
It is time to take counsel and try to learn why.
And here we behold, with the gravest concern,
Dark symptoms of trouble, and trouble to burn.
For never, since this mighty nation began,
Has a job been refused by a Tammany man!

WHAT can be the matter? Is Daniels to blame?
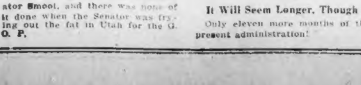
Has Edward M. House mixed too much in the game?
Has Some One been waiting a whole lot too long
To do anything, and then doing it wrong?
A job that brings with it ten thousand a year
Turned down with a bang! and with almost a sneer!
No wonder the Cabinet pales with affright,
It is painfully plain that all things are not right,
When even a Tammany lawyer won't take
The best little gift that the party can make!

AH! well may the features of McAdoo wear
The hang-dog expression of utter despair,
Ah! well may McCombs, in dejection and woe,
Observe in a whisper: "I told 'em all so!"
And well may the Colonel observe with a grin:
"It is really too bad! What a pickle they're in!"
And well may the whiskers of Charles Evans Hughes
Sing gaily together on hearing the news.
For a party is doomed for a terrible fall
When its jobs go abegging in Tammany Hall!



Exaggerated Reports

A dozen cities claim that Villa's dead,
Where Villa, living hides beneath the bed.

An Authority

Bad cooking is a crime, says Senator Smoot, and there was none of it done when the Senator was frying out the fat in Utah for the G. O. P.

All for One and One for All

In Mexico there are Villistas and Carranzistas. Also there are rattlesnakes and Gila monsters. And there is almost as much difference between the first as between the second.

Good Taste as an Asset

By Charles F. Thwing

President of Western Reserve University

GOOD taste is intellectual conscientiousness.

It means both discernment and discretion.

It stands for those refinements of mind, heart and conscience which we usually call cultural.

It is founded upon seeing clearly, reasoning soundly, judging accurately, feeling purely and sympathetically, speaking fittingly, choosing wisely, and doing rightly.

It means putting things where they belong.

It embodies the Greek principle of neither too much nor too little.

It means the absence of discord in sound or in color. Symphony and harmony are among its chief words.

In manners it spells courtesy, in scholarship refinement, in architecture proportion, in music melody or harmony, in worship decorum, in literature a sense of form, in achievement modesty, in character humility.

Is, however, good taste an asset or a liability?

In a world in which examples of bad taste are altogether too common and too impressive, does not good taste give occasion of pain to the one possessing it, and cause him also to be useful to, or, at least, respected by, his fellowmen?

Such may indeed be the sad fact. But, despite the abundance of examples of bad taste, illustrations of good taste are always to be found and in the enjoyment of them is the heart to be satisfied. It is also evident that if good taste possesses the soul, one could not have the bad taste to become offensive to his fellows.

Good taste belongs, not only to individuals, but to institutions, agencies, movements. Certain cities, like Florence, embody it; and others, like Glasgow, lack it. Certain churches illustrate it, and certain other ecclesiastical foundations do not. Certain universities contain many examples of it, and other universities, likewise outstanding, represent the opposite qualities.

But wherever found, in public or semi-public buildings, good taste gives quickening to the intellect, inspiration to the heart and a sense of contentment to one's spirit.

The possession of good taste seems, in certain instances, almost instinctive, so natural is it, so personal, so individual. Yet it is a quality to be gained. In securing good taste it is first to be borne in mind that it is worth acquiring.

Real appreciation of it is the first condition for getting, for holding and for using it.

It belongs to the deep and lasting elements of the mind. He who gains it, therefore, gains also in intellect, conscience and heart.

Here's Where We Hear from the Hair Doctor

A celebrated specialist has written for the Boston Sunday AMERICAN a series of articles for men and women on the hair. Next Sunday's article tells why the hair gets sick and what can be done to bring it back to health again. If you have good hair these studies will tell you how to hold it. If your hair is slipping you ought to know how to bring it back.
